AN OVERVIEW

*Then I heard the voice of the Lord saying,
“Whom shall I send, and who will go for us?”
And I said, “Here am I, send me!”
Isaiah 6:8*

What is TRIM?

Training in Ministry (TRIM) is an approved ministry training program for the Church of the Brethren that provides the educational component required for ordination.

TRIM is a program authorized by Annual Conference that

1. offers the same scope of training as a seminary education, but
2. offers it in a more abbreviated and flexible version, so that
3. the training can be completed closer to home and, depending on the extent of prior educational experience, in as few as three to four years.

Like the recommended professional training route of college and seminary, TRIM consists of a combination of general education, biblical and theological studies, and practical training in ministry. It is a compact program that allows students to design their own package of courses and other learning experiences within a balanced structure of activities.

Partners in Training

The Brethren Academy for Ministerial Leadership, a partnership of Bethany Theological Seminary and the Church of the Brethren, administers a variety of ministry training programs including TRIM, Education for a Shared Ministry (EFSM), Educación para un Ministerio Compartido (EPMC), Seminario Anabautista Hispano (SeBAH-COB), and Academy Certified Training Systems (ACTS).

Direct funding for TRIM comes from the Church of the Brethren and Bethany Theological Seminary. When a student graduates from TRIM, they are considered alumni of Bethany.

In addition to the denomination and the seminary, the TRIM program works with the 24 districts of the Church of the Brethren. Districts make decisions regarding calling and credentialing of individual persons for ministry. All students enter TRIM with the approval and support of their district.

District TRIM Coordinators

Each district with students enrolled in the TRIM program appoints a district TRIM coordinator who will be the “on-site” supervisor and mentor for TRIM students. These individuals are a source of information and encouragement for students as they proceed through the TRIM program.

The activities of a district TRIM coordinator vary somewhat from district to district but generally include:

- Advising students on coursework and other TRIM requirements
- Approving completed work (ministry internship forms, Independent Study Units, etc.)
- Contacting students occasionally to maintain a good relationship
- Sending paperwork to the Brethren Academy office in a timely manner
- Keeping the district leadership up to date on the progress of students
- Conferring with the Coordinator of ENGLISH-LANGUAGE PROGRAMS as needed
- Attending periodic district TRIM coordinator gatherings, which may be in person or by other forms of communication (phone, Skype, ZOOM, etc.)

Time Parameters

The TRIM program is designed to be completed in three to five years. In special cases permission to extend a program of study will be granted by the Brethren Academy staff upon request of the student and recommendation of the district TRIM coordinator. Such requests and recommendations will provide an adequate rationale for the extension. Students may remain enrolled in the TRIM program a maximum of ten years without incurring penalty. After ten years, students will begin losing TRIM credits, beginning with the first year of their enrollment. They will lose one year of credits for each year they remain in the program.

To avoid this penalty, a student may take an official Leave of Absence for up to 4 sessions or 2 academic years if faced with health, family, professional, financial or other concerns that interfere with their studies. A student must apply for a Leave of Absence using the form provided on the Brethren Academy website and follow all aspects of the Leave of Absence policy. Leave time granted may not total more than 4 sessions or 2 academic years per TRIM student.

Progress Status

In any given academic year, a student must complete a minimum of one unit (or supervised ministry experience) to remain in good standing. Each fall a summary report is sent from the Academy office to each participating district for their use to determine student progress in TRIM. If a student fails to make adequate progress, their district may decide to remove a student from the program. This is to be done in consultation with the district TRIM coordinator, the student, and at times the Coordinator of the English-Language Ministry Training Programs of the Brethren Academy.

Withdrawal/Transferring Districts

If a student finds that TRIM is not the appropriate ministry training for themselves, and chooses to withdraw, the student must notify their district and report the decision to the Brethren Academy Office.

Students who move to a new district while enrolled in TRIM shall notify the Brethren Academy Office, the district coordinator from the previous district and the district coordinator of the new district. In order to continue in TRIM, a student must have the approval and support of the new district.

1-B

TRIM PROGRAM REQUIREMENTS

TRIM training features a flexible design; however, each student will complete a common set of requirements. These common elements include both coursework and practical training experiences as summarized below:

A. 30 units of coursework, at least 10 of which must be completed while in TRIM:

10 units of Biblical or Theological Studies, including:

- Introduction to Biblical Studies (as part of Orientation)
- Introduction to Hebrew Scripture
- Introduction to New Testament
- Church of the Brethren Studies (history, theology, or polity)

10 units of Ministry Skills, including:

- Practical Ministry Colloquium (taken during second year of student's program)

10 General Education Units

Note: In the completion of these 30 hours, students are expected to work at their next level of academic achievement.

B. Five Required Experiences

Ecumenical, Intercultural, or Interfaith Experience

Church of the Brethren College Experience or Brethren Connection Experience

Bethany Theological Seminary Experience in addition to Orientation

Annual Conference Experience

District Conference Experience

C. Ministry Internship (Pre-requisite): Completion of at least 20 units of TRIM credit, five units of which must be completed while in TRIM. A plan for this 400-hour requirement must be submitted to the Academy for approval one month before beginning the internship.

D. Graduation Preparation

Exit Exam

Final Student and District Coordinator evaluations

All work is planned and completed in consultation with District Coordinator.*

Students pay a bi-annual participation fee to the Brethren Academy for each session they are enrolled in the program, whether or not they register for courses. Students are billed each January and July, beginning the January following attendance at orientation.

*TRIM transcripts are mailed twice each year to the student and his or her district TRIM coordinator. A copy of the fall report is mailed to the student's sponsoring district and includes a summary report of the student's progress.

FINANCIAL CONSIDERATIONS of TRIM

“Count well the cost,” Christ Jesus says, “when you lay the foundation.” So begins the hymn whose translated words were written by the first leader of the Church of the Brethren, Alexander Mack. Entering TRIM students are encouraged to take these words to heart, for a ministry training program requires time, thought, and a strong commitment of one’s life to Jesus Christ. In addition, there are financial costs whenever one embarks on an educational venture. While God does provide in miraculous ways, TRIM students often have many financial responsibilities in their lives, and so this financial aspect of enrolling in the program is one to consider carefully.

Application and enrollment fees: TRIM calls for a substantial investment of resources, some of which come from supporting agencies and some of which come from the students themselves. The direct payments a student makes to the Academy include a one-time enrollment fee and a bi-annual participation fee which is billed each January and July. Call the Brethren Academy for current rates.

Costs for Units of Study: Students themselves pay for courses and other units of study. In the end, costs will vary by student because the cost of units varies widely. Students will pay less overall if they enter TRIM having already earned academic credit or completed units of study at another institution that count toward TRIM certification. While enrolled in TRIM, some students will pay more for credits earned at outside institutions and applied to the TRIM program. Also, full-time enrollment is more costly than part-time, but full-time students are eligible for more financial assistance than part-time students. In the end, the total net cost could end up being less for full time students.

Financial Assistance: All participants in TRIM are eligible to apply for financial assistance in the form of covenantal grants. TRIM grants do not have to be repaid. In accepting grants, however, applicants commit themselves to supporting the Church of the Brethren in the future through their ministries, contributions to the Church of the Brethren and Bethany Theological Seminary (which supports the Brethren Academy), and their total stewardship of life and resources. The amount of the grant for which a student is eligible is contingent on the number of units the student is enrolling for the year. The maximum annual grant is currently $1,200. Some additional scholarship funds may be available for those students who take courses through Bethany Seminary. All scholarship funds awarded are to be used for tuition.

Funding Alternatives: District TRIM coordinators work with each entering student to determine costs and funding alternatives to help cover expenses. Some districts and individual congregations are also willing to provide funding for ministry training programs. Students should have a conversation with the appropriate person in the district and congregation about this matter.

1-D

COMPETENCIES FOR MINISTRY: A USER'S COMMENTARY

The TRIM program has as its goal the preparation of individuals called to ministry. While no program can completely prepare one for the complexities that ministry involves, it should be the goal of every TRIM student to obtain a wide range of emerging and developed skills that will be a resource in the years ahead.

Below is a list of ministerial competencies as suggested by the Church of the Brethren Ministry Office in its Ministerial Leadership Manual. District TRIM coordinators and students are expected to observe these competencies as a guide for considering areas of study as well as a source of discussion in determining whether a well-balanced education program is being constructed and carried out that will provide a strong base for future learnings and solid ministry in the name of Jesus Christ.

1. Familiarity with the Christian Scriptures and the contexts in which they were written and competency in biblical interpretation:

The Bible bears witness to God's deeds and guides the church in its quest to live as God's people. Thus, it is important for ministerial leaders to know the writings that comprise the Bible and the story of the people of God out of which these writings arose. It is also important that ministers acquire skills in interpreting scripture more effectively and that they understand how and why Christians interpret the Bible differently. It is especially important that they be able to use scripture appropriately in the various ministries of the church and that they be able to facilitate the study and discernment of the biblical message on the part of the congregation as a whole.

2. Familiarity with and ability to reflect theologically on the history and social context of Christianity:

The story of God's people that begins in scripture continues on in the life and history of the church across the centuries. Thus, it is important for ministerial leaders to be familiar with significant people, events, and issues in the ongoing story of the Christian community. It is also important that they understand how the church's story relates to and intersects the wider world in which it develops. In addition to knowing the story, ministerial leaders need to be able to reflect on the story from the vantage point of faith: Where and how do we see God active in the church's story? Where and how do we see the church responding faithfully or unfaithfully as the people of God?

3. Awareness of the contextual character of particular Christian traditions, especially as found in the North American setting and in global settings of developing Christianity:

Christians have one Lord, one faith, one baptism. But the way they confess and practice their faith differs widely from age to age, from place to place, and from one society to another. Thus, it is important that ministerial leaders understand the way in which the language, symbols, and practices of various Christian groups bear the imprint of their cultural context. It is important that they be familiar with significant features of the North American setting of Brethren communities, including the growing cultural diversity in our midst. It is also important that they appreciate how and why believers elsewhere in the world may experience life differently and express their faith differently.

4. Familiarity with and ability to reflect theologically on the heritage of the believers' church tradition:

Within the wider Christian story, the Church of the Brethren is one of several groups who share a heritage known as the believers' church tradition. Thus, it is important that ministerial leaders be conversant with the movements out of which the Brethren and other believers' church groups emerged. It is important that they understand some of the characteristic themes and emphases of the believers' church such as believers' baptism and discipleship. It is also important that they be familiar with some of the particular people and events that shaped the history of the Brethren. And it is important that they be able to interpret the beliefs, practices, and polity of the Brethren in terms of their biblical basis, historical development, and significance for the church today.

5. Ability to articulate faith in language that is theologically informed and culturally persuasive:

As Christians, we celebrate the good news of God's love for us in Jesus Christ. All too often, however, we are unable to communicate that good news in a clear and convincing manner. Thus, it is important that ministerial leaders acquire and demonstrate skills in theological reflection. It is important that they be able to demonstrate how the convictions they hold relate to the Bible, the shared heritage of the wider church, and the beliefs and practices of the Brethren. It is also important that they be able to show how the Christian message engages and challenges the values of the dominant culture. And it is important that they be able to communicate the good news with clarity and credibility in a variety of settings within and beyond the church.

6. An understanding of the congregation informed by both theological heritage and learnings from the human sciences:

The life of faith is a life in community, and the place where we experience community with other believers on an ongoing basis is the congregation. Thus, it is important that ministerial leaders be familiar with biblical images and models of the church as the people of God. It is important that they be able to describe key features of the believers' church view of the faith community and how they may be embodied in the life of a congregation. It is also important that they acquire a systemic understanding of the congregation and so be better able to deal with the dynamics at work in congregational life. And it is important that they be able to reflect critically on significant issues affecting the life and health of congregations at the present time.

7. Ability to articulate a vision of ministry congruent with one's sense of vocation and appropriate to the ministry context in which that vocation will be practiced:

Central to our understanding of ministry is the belief that ministry is not simply an occupation, but rather a vocation. Thus, it is important that ministerial leaders be able to describe the nature and development of their sense of calling. It is important that they be able to discuss how their sense of vocation relates to biblical models of ministry and to the understanding of ministry in the Church of the Brethren. It is also important that they be familiar with significant features of the ministry setting in which they are or will be serving, whether a congregation or other placement. And it is important that they be able to distinguish helpful and unhelpful understandings of the role of the ministerial leader.

8. Ability to nurture and reflect critically on the spiritual formation of self and others, including ethics for ministry and life in community:

The life of faith is more than believing and doing; it is an unending process of spiritual formation and transformation. Thus, it is important that ministerial leaders be able to articulate their own spiritual autobiography and identify critical issues for continuing development. It is important that they be familiar with some of the classical disciplines that nurture the process of spiritual growth, including prayer and Bible study. It is also important that they be familiar with several contemporary models for understanding moral or faith development in individuals and groups. And it is important that they be aware of key issues in ministerial and congregational ethics as addressed by Annual Conference and exhibit skills in processing concrete cases related to such issues.

9. Skills in interpersonal relationships, in mediating conflict, and in building community:

Healthy congregations are places where people know how to relate to one another in constructive ways, even in the midst of conflict and controversy. Thus, it is important that ministerial leaders understand how differing personality types and styles of interaction affect the life of a group. It is also important to understand basic group dynamics. It is important that they have developed skills in listening and in cultivating communication. It is important that they be familiar with resources from scripture, Brethren heritage, and conflict theory that can help people deal with conflict in constructive ways. And it is important that they be able to apply conflict mediation skills to concrete situations, as demonstrated through role plays, case studies, etc.

10. Ability to provide effective leadership in congregational and other church-related arenas of ministry:

The quality of leadership frequently determines whether a group will be able to carry out its mission together. Thus, it is important that ministerial leaders be able to articulate an understanding of leadership informed by biblical, theological, and sociological perspectives. It is important that they be able to identify their own leadership style and assess the particular strengths and weaknesses of that style. It is also important that they be able to identify ways of calling forth and nurturing others' gifts for ministry. It is important that they be able to demonstrate skills in the various arenas of ministry related to their vocation, skills in preaching, worship, pastoral care, teaching, evangelism, and administration. Church of the Brethren polity and practice guides our life together.

11. Ability to integrate biblical, historical, and theological understandings with the practice of ministry:

Understanding that is not embodied in practice is of little value. Practice that is not guided by understanding is shallow. The overarching competency, therefore, that ministry education seeks to achieve is the ability to practice ministry in a biblically and theologically informed manner. One of the marks of this competency is an ability to bring biblical, historical, and theological understandings to bear on concrete ministry situations, whether in actual practice or in case studies. Another is the ability to respond in discerning ways to the questions of peers and teachers regarding the meaning and practice of ministry. However, assessed, integration of understanding and practice is the crucial test of competency for ministry. Refer to additional expectations of training, practice, and accountability in the current

Ministerial Competencies were developed by the Ministry Advisory Council in consultation with the dean and faculty of Bethany Theological Seminary and affirmed by the Council of District Executives in May 2000. Revised November 2018 by the Ministry Advisory Council.*

MINISTERIAL ETHICS in the CHURCH of the BRETHREN

We live in a time when the wider church has been greatly damaged by those in leadership who have not taken their role as ethical leaders seriously. While we are all human who make mistakes, those called to ministry need to be very aware of the visible and honorable place they occupy in the church.

To be clear about ethical boundaries for ministers, included in your TRIM manual is a section of the code of ethics from the current Church of the Brethren Ethics in Ministry Relations paper that was adopted by Annual Conference in 2008. The complete document is found at http://www.brethren.org/ac/ac_statements/). The Church of the Brethren Office of Ministry provides clergy ethics training for licensed ministers several times each year and for credentialed ministers every five years.

CODE OF ETHICS FOR MINISTERIAL LEADERS

We believe that we have been called by God, through the church, to the set-apart ministry in the Church of the Brethren. It is our calling and our function to lead and facilitate the church in its mission to obey and serve Christ and to witness to the good news of the gospel. We are committed to fulfilling the trust the church has placed in us by maintaining a high standard of Christian conviction, by sincerity of purpose, by nurturing and sharing our gifts, and by integrity of our character. We are dedicated to upholding the dignity and worth of every person who seeks or is reached by our care and proclamation. In order to uphold our standards, we, as ministers in the Church of the Brethren, together and individually covenant to live out the following:

Integrity of the Ministerial Life

- A. I will be true to the Judeo-Christian scriptures in my preaching, teaching, and manner of living.
- B. I will be true to Christian convictions as revealed in the Bible and interpreted, taught to, and nurtured in me by the church under the guidance of the Holy Spirit.
- C. I will live with integrity, upholding my commitments to God, to others, and to the church.
- D. I will exercise a lifestyle consistent with the teachings of Jesus, giving serious attention to Annual Conference statements.
- E. I will assume responsibility for my physical and emotional health and for my spiritual growth and enrichment. I will strive to maintain reasonable expectations for myself and not allow others' unreasonable expectations to endanger my well-being.
- F. I will treat members of my family with Christian love and respect.
- G. I will treat my congregation and parishioners with Christian love and respect.

- H. I will be a good steward of all of my resources, managing them to live within my income.

Integrity of the Ministerial Call

- I. I will support the basic beliefs and practices of the Church of the Brethren as determined by Annual Conference.
- J. I will respect the privacy of individuals and will not divulge information obtained in confidence without expressed permission. When an individual is a danger to self or others, however, I will take appropriate action, even when this breaks confidentiality.
- K. I will report all cases of suspected child abuse. I will be knowledgeable of and act in accordance with the mandated reporting requirements of professionals within my state.
- L. I will not exchange or tolerate scandalous, malicious, or inaccurate information concerning others.
- M. I will give credit for all sources quoted or extensively paraphrased in sermons and prepared papers. I will honor all copyrights.
- N. I acknowledge that education is a lifelong process and will seek out opportunities to continue to grow spiritually and in ministry skills.
- O. I will honor the ministry of clergy colleagues in our denomination and in the larger Christian community, striving to work with them in a collegial manner. I will not proselytize people from other churches. I will only perform ministerial services, such as weddings, funerals, baptisms, anointings, pastoral counseling, and critical pastoral care, in another congregation at the request of the current pastor and that build up the ministry and mission of the body of Christ in that place.
- P. I will honor the ministry of pastors in my former parishes. It is inappropriate to be involved in the pastoral ministry of a congregation after leaving it or upon retirement, or to perform ministerial services, or to cultivate such relationships with former parishioners, if it hinders the ministry of the congregation and pastor. I will only perform ministerial services, such as weddings, funerals, baptisms, anointing, pastoral counseling, and critical pastoral care, in a former congregation at the request of the current pastor.
- Q. Whenever serving in another category of ministerial leadership (i.e., chaplain, professor, denominational leader, retired, etc.) than pastoral/congregational ministry, I will honor the ministry of my pastor and congregation by being aware of my informal authority. I will not exert undue influence in the internal workings of my congregation.
- R. In the event of a complaint against me, I will participate in the denominational process for dealing with complaints of ministerial misconduct.

Integrity of the Ministerial Relationship (Fiduciary Responsibility)

- S. I will not misuse the trust placed in me and the unique power inherent in my role by exploiting in any way those who seek my help or care.

- T. I will not use my office or authority to apply influence upon a parishioner or others in order to secure bequests, gifts, loans, or financial gain that would personally benefit me.
- U. I will not expect nor seek financial favors or gratuities because of my position.
- V. I will be responsible and honest in the management of all resources and funds entrusted to my care in the course of my employment.
- W. I will not enter into “dual relationships” with parishioners that result in a “conflict of interest” that could personally benefit me.
- X. I will not engage in pastoral counseling that extends beyond the limits of my training and experience. I will use appropriate consulting and referral services.
- Y. It is unethical to take advantage of the vulnerability of any person by causing that person to engage in sexual activity or conduct with me. I will not engage in sexual activity with any person other than my spouse. Such behavior would be especially egregious within the church or ministry agency I serve.
- Z. I will not engage in any form of child abuse—sexual, physical, or emotional.

STUDENT ENROLLMENT and ORIENTATION

If you have enrolled in TRIM, you have done so by invitation of your district. Leadership in the district, usually via the district executive minister or leadership equivalent, determines whether to recommend a person for TRIM, preferably in consultation with the district TRIM coordinator. In this way, you have already been identified as a person with gifts for ministry and have affirmed that calling to serve the church as a minister.

As part of enrollment, students request transcripts from all previous educational institutions and have them sent to the Brethren Academy office. (These transcripts need not be official and may be copies.) These records help to determine the trajectory of each student's program, as well as the number and types of courses needed to complete the program.

TRIM orientation takes place once a year, usually during the last week of July. This is normally an in-person event hosted by Bethany Theological Seminary in Richmond, Indiana.

At the orientation, new students will

- Attend the first session of an eight-week, online course called "Introduction to Biblical Studies."
- Receive a detailed explanation of the TRIM program.
- Begin to create a Learning Covenant which will serve as the student's roadmap to their individual program.
- Have opportunities to meet other students and church leaders for worship and conversation.

Immediately following the on-campus orientation, new students will meet with their district TRIM coordinator (face-to-face or by phone) to complete the Learning Covenant. The Learning Covenant must be signed by the district TRIM coordinator and sent to the Coordinator for approval within six weeks following the on-campus orientation.

2-A

ORIENTATION BASICS

The basic purpose of orientation is to help you understand the details of TRIM. During these sessions we will discuss the process, the requirements, and the expectations of the program.

In addition to the “nuts and bolts” of the TRIM program, we hope you will find rich fellowship and support among your peers who are entering this program with you. You will also learn about the role of the district TRIM coordinator and the guidance he or she will provide for you. During orientation, you will meet the some of the staff and faculty of Bethany Theological Seminary and be introduced to the possibilities for training through Bethany that might be open to you. You will also begin a Bible/Theology course called “Introduction to Biblical Studies” that will develop your confidence in online learning as well as give you a taste of professional training in set-apart ministry.

Finally, it is the hope of those planning this orientation that in many respects you will find your time here to be a retreat. By coming to orientation, you have placed yourself apart from your busy life, allowing for the possibility that God may speak to you in a new way. As you leave this orientation, may you be filled with anticipation and enthusiasm about the possibilities that lie ahead and sense even more deeply that God walks with you on this journey.

2 - B

ORIENTATION FOLLOW UP

When orientation ends, some people feel a sense of let down or a sense of being overwhelmed by all that needs to be done. The following list will set some direction for the weeks following orientation and help you get started.

1. Allow for some down time upon returning home. Be gentle with yourself. One important aspect of any ministry is balance, so while training is vital, rest is also important. You have been exposed to many new ideas and lots of information during this time. Take some time to think about the orientation experience before plowing into the work.
2. Meet with your district TRIM coordinator within one month following orientation either face-to-face or in a phone conversation. This time together should include:
 - A review of your orientation experience.
 - Completion of the Learning Covenant due September 15th, following on-campus orientation.
3. Make a time management plan. You will be more successful in any class you take if you set aside some time each week for study. Once you get behind, it is very difficult to catch up. Learn to pace yourself with “Introduction to Biblical Studies.”
4. Complete assigned work. You will receive credit for completing TRIM orientation once you have completed and received credit for Introduction to Biblical Studies.
5. Return your completed Learning Covenant to the Brethren Academy office within six weeks. Students may not register for additional courses until a signed Learning Covenant is on file.

2 - C

TRIM LEARNING COVENANT

To be submitted to the Brethren Academy
by September 15

The TRIM program is a program for discovering, exploring, and developing one's gifts through academic courses, a supervised internship, and individual discernment and reflection. As such, this learning covenant is a tool for noticing and naming gifts as well as exploring areas of growth. It will also help outline desired outcomes and identify a process in order to meet one's goals.

While a portion of this learning covenant will best be completed by individual, prayerful reflection, it is intended to be a jumping-off place for conversation with your district TRIM coordinator. Additionally, it will be a guidepost to help you on your way, as you seek direction while in the program, and as you reflect on your growth at the completion of the program.

I. Personal and Ministry Discernment (please attach answers to this document)

1. What gifts do you feel you have for ministry? (150-300 words) You may see these gifts you see in yourself or there may be gifts that others have expressed seeing in you that you may not have fully realized or claimed yet. Consider the areas of preaching and teaching, worship planning, scriptural interpretation, pastoral care, spiritual direction, prayer, organization and leadership, community engagement, and theological reflection, just to name a few.

2. What areas of growth do you feel you need to attend to while in ministry training? (150-300 words) Part of ministry training is not just to improve upon your gifts, but also to strengthen areas in which you feel less competent. Again, consider the areas of preaching and teaching, worship planning, scriptural interpretation, pastoral care, spiritual direction, prayer, organization and leadership, community engagement, and theological reflection, etc.

3. What is your vision for your personal ministry? (150-300 words) To what context, area, or situations do you feel called to utilize your ministry training? Describe how you see yourself applying your gifts in this specific context.

II. Learning and Support Plan

1. Coursework - What courses do you anticipate taking within the first year of your ministry training? Building on the momentum of orientation, it is helpful to outline a strong plan for the first year. This can help you start ministry training on solid, confident footing. TRIM/EFSM ORIENTATION EVALUATION FORM

As the staff of the Brethren Academy, we hope this time of orientation has been helpful to you in a number of ways. To help us continually refine the orientation for maximum usefulness, please fill out this evaluation as frankly as you possibly can. Circle a number on the continuum for each of the items below (5 is a superior rating, 1 is a poor rating). Space is provided after each question for written comments.

1. Design/Organization of the week

5 4 3 2 1

Comment: What did you wish there was more time for? What could have been eliminated or emphasized less?

2. Advance Information and Arrangements

5 4 3 2 1

Comment: Did this experience meet your expectations? If not, how could we have prepared you better?

3. Worship/Devotions/Prayer Session

5 4 3 2 1

4. TRIM/EFSM Training Sessions

5 4 3 2 1

Comment: This experience is meant to be a springboard for your work with your district TRIM coordinator/EFSM Supervisor. While you will not leave with all the answers to questions that will arise, do you feel you have received enough information to move ahead? If not, what are you uneasy about?

5. Other Group Sessions

5 4 3 2 1

Comment: To prime the pump for learning in the area of ministry, we have included a variety of sessions lead by various individuals addressing a range of topics in ministry. Which session(s) were particularly intriguing to you? Was there something missing that you anticipated or wished would have been planned?

8. General comments. Thank you for your time not only to be with us at orientation, but also to give us your feedback. Are there other areas that you would like to comment on?

CURRICULUM

3 - A

COURSEWORK

The Coordinator of English-Language Ministry Training Program is responsible for working with the student to outline the individual courses needed to complete the program. Together, they explore transcripts from previous education from accredited institutions and the Coordinator will provide the student with the outline prior to orientation. Students must request these unofficial transcripts be sent to BAML.s

While in TRIM, students will take courses in three areas: general education, biblical and theological studies, and ministry skills.

A. General Education

The basic objective of general education is to become more familiar with the broad areas of knowledge important for understanding ourselves and the world in which we live. Specific units of recommended study in this area include language and communication skills, computer skills, literature, the arts (including music), philosophy, history, economics, psychology, sociology, and natural science. Other fields of general education are possible, depending on the interest of the student. Substitutions may be made with the approval of the Coordinator of the English-Language Ministry Training Programs.

Credit may be granted for units of study completed prior to participation in TRIM if the student can provide acceptable certification for this work. For work at accredited colleges or seminaries a copy of the student's final transcripts or grade reports are required. It is highly recommended that students fulfill their ten general education units in an undergraduate (accredited) institution prior to beginning TRIM, but it is possible to have dual enrollment in TRIM and an undergraduate institution.

B. Biblical and Theological Studies

The purpose of biblical and theological studies is to become more familiar with the biblical foundations of the Christian faith and with the church's reflection on and response to the biblical message throughout its history. All students are required to take a minimum of one unit in each of three areas:

1. Introduction to Biblical Studies (taken at orientation)
2. Introduction to Old Testament
3. Introduction to New Testament
4. Church of the Brethren studies (history, theology, or polity)

C. Ministry Skills

In the study of ministry and ministry skills, the goal is to become familiar with the nature and scope of the church's ministry, to articulate how one's calling relates to that ministry, and to exhibit increased competency in the various skills for ministry. Many courses are offered in this area, and students are required to complete:

I. Practical Ministry Colloquium

Accumulating Course Credit

Every student will complete a total of 30 curricular units. A curricular unit is defined as:

- One TRIM course offered by the Brethren Academy for Ministerial Leadership or Susquehanna Valley Ministry Center
- A 3-hour course in a fourteen-week semester or a 4-hour course in a ten-week quarter at the college or seminary level
- One Directed Independent Study Unit (DISU) offered by the Brethren Academy for Ministerial Leadership or Susquehanna Valley Ministry Center
- One Independent Study Unit (ISU), which is a combination of learning experiences, each broadly equivalent to a 3 semester-hour course (75-90 class hours total). No more than one-sixth of units taken while in TRIM can be fulfilled by ISUs.
- An Academy Certified Training Systems (ACTS) course may be taken for TRIM credit with approval of the Coordinator with additional work completed under the supervision of the instructor

The number of curricular units that may be transferred to TRIM from other structured academic settings that are not accredited must be negotiated with the Coordinator. This negotiation is based on a fair assessment of the actual hours invested in the course. One course at an unaccredited institution may be worth one quarter, one third, or one half of a TRIM unit, but no more than half a unit. Or the coordinator may award one unit of credit for several courses in the same area of the curriculum, such as Biblical and Theological Studies.

Up to half of the credits needed to complete the TRIM program may be transferred in from other institutions (that is, institutions other than the Brethren Academy or Bethany) while in TRIM. This does not affect the number of credits that can be transferred into TRIM when beginning the program.

TRIM students must complete at least ten (10) curricular units while in the program, (that is, no more than twenty (20) units can be transferred into the program from previous institutions.)

Transcripts

TRIM transcripts are sent to students and coordinators two times each year, in the fall and in the spring. The work shown on the transcript reflects all work completed through the Academy or received by transfer at the Brethren Academy Office as of that time. A student may always request a copy of their transcript by contacting the Brethren Academy office

3 - B

PRACTICAL MINISTRY COLLOQUIUM

Practical Ministry Colloquium (PMC) is one of the five core courses students must take to complete the TRIM program. It is the goal of PMC to engage reflectively and theologically on the practices of ministry in preparation for the supervised ministry internship, with a focus on rituals and rites of the church, administration, and self-care.

While PMC requires the same amount of contact hours and workload as other courses, it differs in that it is an extended 9-month online seminar. PMC is taken during the second year of the student's program, with the cohort the student started with in orientation, and satisfies one Ministry/Ministry Skills Unit.

Through the nine months (September-May), students will explore and participate in rites and ordinances of the church, study administration and self-care practices, and prepare for the supervised ministry internship. Students will engage in reading, respond to Moodle posts every two weeks, take part in 4 conference calls, and submit a number of written reflections and case studies.

Students will automatically be enrolled in the program and will receive notification about preparation for PMC in the summer prior to the start of the course. As part of the foundation for the TRIM program, the course fee is covered by the entrance fee paid at the beginning of the program. Therefore, students will not need to pay an additional registration fee. Books, however, will need to be purchased by the student.

3 - C

INDEPENDENT STUDY UNITS

An Independent Study Unit (ISU) is broadly equivalent to a college or seminary course in the quantity and quality of learning it expects. The ISU should be as rigorous as a traditional course but allows students more flexibility. For instance, a student can “design” courses that will better meet the requirements of TRIM and, for example, combine a topic with a competency requirement. In most cases, TRIM students will spend on average 75-90 hours on an ISU. Included in this figure will be time spent studying, attending lectures or events, reading, writing, and evaluating the work done in the ISU.

No more than one-sixth of units taken while in TRIM can be fulfilled by ISUs.

Sample Independent Study Units

- An online course or independent study by video, DVD, webinars, etc. instruction
- Independent research or practicum
- Correspondence course
- A combination of workshops and other short-term events
- An Academy Certified Training Systems (ACTS) course with additional work approved by the Coordinator.
- Independent reading, interaction, and reflection that focuses on one of the required areas of study under “TRIM Program Requirements”

The Process

- I. Responsibility for designing a proposed ISU rests initially with the student.
 - a. The student will submit a draft proposal for an ISU to the district TRIM coordinator at least a month in advance of the time when the unit is scheduled to begin.
 - b. The Coordinator will review the proposed unit contract, offer feedback and input, negotiate revisions where appropriate and submit the proposal and suggestions to the Coordinator. The Coordinator will review the proposed unit contract and return the contract with accumulated suggestions to the student or approve the unit design as it stands.
 - d. If changes are needed, student will revise the proposal and submit a final version on the contract form provided in the next section (3-L) to the Coordinator for approval.

Questions the student, district TRIM coordinator, and Coordinator will want to ask in this process are:

- Does the unit contribute to the overall training needs of the student as identified in his or her Learning Covenant?
- Does the contract spell out clear and measurable learning objectives?

- Are the events and experiences to be incorporated in the unit academically and theologically appropriate?
- Is the amount of work projected both sufficient and reasonable?
- Are there adequate and clearly defined means of evaluating the completed work?

2. By terms of the ISU contract, the student and District Coordinator will complete written evaluations of the unit when the work of an ISU is completed, and will secure the evaluation of any other leader, if necessary. If the work is acceptable, the Coordinator will then sign the evaluation and submit it to the Brethren Academy Office. Any work submitted by email from a district TRIM coordinator is considered “signed.”

Written evaluations should address each of the following questions:

- Where did significant growth occur during the unit? Can you identify several learnings that stand out?
- How have the various objectives for the unit been fulfilled? If some have not been fulfilled, why?
- How has the overall design of the unit worked or not worked? What was helpful? What was less helpful?

If, upon assessing the work of the student, the district TRIM coordinator finds weaknesses, he or she may make recommendations for follow-up reading or training experiences to build on the work of the unit. In such a case, the District Coordinator’s final evaluation will be withheld until the student makes additions and revisions to the work.

DIRECTED INDEPENDENT STUDY UNIT

A Directed Independent Study Unit (DISU) is a hybrid of an instructor-led course and an Independent Study Unit (ISU). The DISU differs from an ISU in that an instructor, rather than the student, structures the initial learning experience, may connect with students throughout duration of the study period, and assigns the learning objectives, requirements and means of evaluation. The student then completes the requirements during a specified time as determined by the instructor.

In most cases, TRIM students will spend on average 75-90 hours on a DISU. Approximately six to eight hours of instruction will begin the DISU. The remaining time will be time spent studying, reading, writing/preparing projects, and evaluating the work done in the DISU. Every DISU will be structured to the discretion of the instructor and will vary from course to course.

All DISUs are organized by the Brethren Academy for Ministerial Leadership or Susquehanna Valley Ministry Center (SVMC).

Directed Independent Study Units may be available during the following experiences

- Pre-Annual Conference Ministers' Association continuing education event
- SVMC Academic Symposium
- Denominational or seminary events as announced.
- For a list of upcoming DISUs, visit the Brethren Academy webpage.

The Process

1. Students will register for a DISU through the Brethren Academy or Susquehanna Valley Ministry Center.
2. Students will be charged a $115 fee for each DISU, in addition to other registration fees for the event.
3. The DISU will begin with a six-to-eight-hour event with an additional two-hour conversation with the DISU instructor. Upon registration, students will receive requirements for the course, assigned readings and projects, and due dates for assignments. The instructor may choose to assign reading or other work prior to the face-to-face meeting.
4. The instructor will submit an evaluation for each student participant.
5. Students will need to complete a self-assessment of their work for this DISU that will be submitted to the Coordinator.

3-E

FIVE REQUIRED EXPERIENCES

Many TRIM students have been very active in the Church of the Brethren and are very familiar with denominational events, but most have attended these events as observers or delegates. TRIM requires each student to take part in events in a new way—as a leader in training. As future leaders, TRIM students will look at these experiences in a different way and gain new perspective on church life.

Every student in TRIM will participate in at least five experiences, including:

- One learning experience taking place on a college campus or taught by a Brethren college instructor OR one experience in a Church of the Brethren affiliated ministry/agency outside of the local congregation
- One Bethany class or another class taught by Bethany faculty
- One Annual Conference
- One District Conference
- One ecumenical, intercultural, or interfaith training experience

Plan ahead for these required experiences. Most TRIM students are in the program for at least two years. Be in touch with congregational leaders as soon as possible to arrange to represent your church at Annual Conference or District Conference. If possible, serve as a delegate. Also, the Academy organizes classes around the country periodically that are taught by Bethany faculty and faculty members of Brethren colleges. Watch for these opportunities to complete your required experiences, especially if you live a long distance from the seminary or a Brethren college.

The Process

1. After each experience, complete the appropriate Five Required Experiences Form that follows. DUE NO MORE THAN THREE MONTHS following the completion of the experience.
2. Give the completed form to your district TRIM coordinator for approval.
3. If approved, the district TRIM coordinator forwards the approval to the Brethren Academy office. Note: A form that is emailed from a district TRIM coordinator to the Brethren Academy Office is considered “signed.”
4. The Brethren Academy office will record the credit for the experience on the TRIM transcript.

3E(a)

CHURCH OF THE BRETHREN COLLEGE or BRETHREN CONNECTION EXPERIENCE

One of the requirements for graduation from TRIM is student participation in a Brethren College Experience or Brethren Connection Experience.

Church of the Brethren College Experience

The purposes of this requirement are several:

- It provides a context for Brethren formation of pastors who enter TRIM with experience in other denominations;
- It affirms the value of high quality, liberal arts education as preparation for ministry;
- It actively facilitates a trainee's sense of loyalty to the Church of the Brethren denominational family;
- It represents one part of the inherent cooperation among various partners in ministry training.

For purposes of TRIM, a Brethren College Experience may be completed in one of the following ways:

1. Attend, with satisfactory academic standing, one of the six Brethren colleges for at least one semester prior to beginning the TRIM program. The experience will then be recorded as "completed" on the student's first official TRIM transcript.
2. Attend one regular, on-campus class offered by the college and complete it with satisfactory academic standing.
3. Attend and complete one off-campus, online, or extension class offered by the college or the Brethren Academy and taught by a Brethren college professor.
4. Participate in an educational experience sponsored by the college, on or off-campus. Examples include a lecture series with outside speakers, or special programs and workshops offered for the community. (The TRIM student may or may not elect to build an Independent Study Unit around such an experience.)
5. Invite a Brethren college professor to plan a series of lectures or workshops in a TRIM student's local area. Use the faculty resources from a Brethren College to meet one of the three subject-area requirements in TRIM.
6. Attend and complete one Brethren Academy class offered on a Brethren college campus.

Questions for reflection paper (2-3 pages, double spaced, standard size/font/margins)

1. Describe the event(s) that took place.
2. Recall the four purposes of the Brethren College/University experience. Choose one and briefly reflect how your time on campus met this purpose.
3. Reflect on the experience by noting any questions, affirmations, moments of insight you had during your time.

Brethren Connection Experience

If it is not feasible to visit a Brethren College in one of these ways while in TRIM, a student may choose to create an experience that connects them with the larger Church of the Brethren denomination and its various ministries.

The purposes of this experience include:

1. To connect with a Church of the Brethren institution and understand the role it plays in the broader ministry in the Church of the Brethren.
2. To learn about the rich history of Church of the Brethren outreach and mission, and how these institutions have changed and adapted over time.
3. To encourage students to find ways to connect congregations with ministries and other groups within the Church of the Brethren.
4. To foster a sense of connection beyond one's own congregation and ministries, seeing it as part of a larger denominational whole.

Some possibilities include attend a Mission and Ministry Board meeting, visit the New Windsor Service Center, volunteer at a Brethren camp, attend a Disaster Ministries or denominationally sponsored workcamp, attend any of the generational conferences as a participant or volunteer (such as National Youth Conference, National Young Adult Conference, Nation Older Adult Conference), visit a Brethren nursing home or care facility, etc. Visit the Church of the Brethren website (www.brethren.org) for possibilities.

Note: Bethany Theological Seminary courses or forums, Annual Conference, and District Conference may not be counted for this experience.

Questions for reflection paper (2-3 pages, double spaced, standard size font/margins)

1. Describe the event or location that you visited including significant people you spoke or worked with in order to better understand the meeting/program/institution.
2. Give some background to the context: When did the meeting/program/institution begin? What was its original purpose? How has it changed? Who does it serve? What is its mission?

3. How does this ministry contribute to the larger ministry and identity of the Church of the Brethren in the wider world?
4. Reflect on the experience by noting any questions, affirmations, moments of insight you had during your time.
5. How do you see this experience informing your ministry within the Church of the Brethren?

3 - E(b)

BETHANY THEOLOGICAL SEMINARY EXPERIENCE

One important requirement for a student's successful completion of TRIM is participation in a Bethany Seminary Experience beyond orientation. Some TRIM students may acquire more than one course at Bethany; however, every student is asked to build at least one Bethany opportunity into their program, via an on-site or online course, or a Directed Independent Study Unit

The purpose of this requirement is to ensure that a student has at least one experience with the denomination's only graduate school of theology. This requirement also affirms the value given to the high-quality education offered by the denomination's only seminary, one of the partner agencies in ministry training.

For purposes of TRIM, the Bethany Seminary experience may be credited in one of the following ways:

1. Enroll as an occasional or special student and complete one course (or more) on the Richmond campus, offered by Bethany and taught by a Bethany instructor.
2. Enroll as an occasional or special student to complete one regular course (or more) offered by the Susquehanna Valley Ministry Center of Bethany Theological Seminary and taught by a member of the Bethany faculty.
3. Participate in one of the intensives, on-site classes, or travel seminars, taught by a Bethany instructor.
4. Invite a Bethany faculty member to lead a seminar or workshop in your area of the country.
5. The online classes of Bethany and the Susquehanna Valley Ministry Center taught by Bethany faculty offer increasing possibilities for TRIM students.

As you plan this experience, please take careful note of the information in this TRIM manual entitled "Academy Students in Graduate Courses" to avoid Misunderstandings about how your experience will be interpreted in TRIM. Do not hesitate to ask questions of Bethany and Academy staff to be sure you understand your status as a TRIM student in a Bethany Seminary course.

Questions for Reflection on Brethren College Experience (2-3 pages)

1. Briefly describe your experience during the Bethany Theological Seminary experience including the course, professor, size of class, mode (online, intensive, travel, etc.).
2. What expectations or assumptions did you have when entering into a Bethany Theological Seminary course? How were those assumptions challenged or affirmed?
3. What is the role of higher education in the preparation of ministers in the Church of the Brethren?

3 - E(c)

ANNUAL CONFERENCE EXPERIENCE

The purpose of this exercise is to gain an understanding of the larger church, and how the local church and individuals relate to it. Below find some areas for exploration and development.

1. Give a brief description of Annual Conference officers, how they are chosen, and what their duties are.
2. Look at Annual Conference committees and organizations, such as Standing Committee and the Mission and Ministry Board. What are their functions? Who represents your district on Standing Committee? Who is the current board chair?
3. Describe the query process; origin, steps, and disposal of business items.
4. Describe and evaluate the worship experience(s) you participated in.
5. Attend several insight sessions. What did you find helpful in the sessions?
6. Briefly describe the age activities that were available.
7. Name some of the biblical and theological principles at work in the Annual Conference structure.
8. Offer your personal reflections and responses to study papers being considered by Annual Conference delegates.

3 - E(d)

DISTRICT CONFERENCE EXPERIENCE

District Conference is a shorter, more local experience than Annual Conference, but crucial in the way the church functions. Examine some of the areas below for this experience.

1. Give a brief description of the District Conference officers, their duties, and how they are chosen.
2. Tell how the district is organized. Who makes up the board? Who are the staff members? What functions and responsibilities does each have?
3. How do the business items arrive at District Conference?
4. A major item at District Conference is the district budget. How is the budget prepared and how is it met in a given year?
5. In what way is the District Conference like a family gathering?
6. What biblical and theological principles become evident in District Conference?
7. In what ways do you see your district relating to the larger church through the District Conference?
8. Reflect on the worship services during District Conference.
9. Offer personal reflections and responses to the District Conference you attended.

3 - E(e)

ECUMENICAL, INTERFAITH, OR INTERCULTURAL EXPERIENCE

One of the requirements for graduation from TRIM is participation in an ecumenical event, an interfaith event, or an intercultural event. The purpose of this requirement is to broaden a student's training beyond his or her own ecclesial or cultural world. We need to be able to see our Brethren experience of the church as part of a larger communion of churches linked together in a common mission. Beyond that, each person needs the opportunity to see the fascinating mix of cultures with which Christians share the world.

Ecumenical and Interfaith Events

For the purposes of TRIM, an ecumenical event will be an experience through which the student learns how the Church of the Brethren works together with other Christian bodies in the larger church. An interfaith experience is an experience through which the student learns how Christians relate to people of other religions. Here are examples of events that qualify:

1. A meeting of an interdenominational council of churches, whether worldwide, national, statewide, or local.
2. Participation in the planning and carrying out of a special interfaith gathering at the local or regional level.
3. Participation in the development and implementation of a cooperative, interchurch or inter-religious ministry in one's community (e.g., food pantry, shelter for the homeless, etc.).
4. Spending a day at New Windsor to tour the facilities and learn how churches and religions work together in Church World Service, Interfaith Medical Assistance, and other agencies.
5. Participating in the activity of a local pastors' association (assuming such a group not only gathers for fellowship, but also develops cooperative programs and events).

Intercultural Events

In a similar manner, an intercultural event will be an experience through which the student's perception of life is expanded by exposure to different cultures and values. Some examples of intercultural events include the following:

1. Study in another country, whether for a regular term of study or for a short-term intensive experience.
2. Participation in a study tour of another part of the world and reflection on that experience.
3. Participation in an international work camp and reflection on that experience.

4. Taking part in a seminar or workshop specifically designed to provide participants with cross-cultural enrichment.
5. Participation in a BVS assignment or similar undertaking to familiarize oneself with a different culture, whether in the United States or abroad.

The lists above are suggestive, not restrictive. You may propose other ideas to the district TRIM coordinator.

Questions for Reflection on Ecumenical, Interfaith, or Intercultural Experience (2-3 pages)

1. Describe the nature of the event, including location, structure, and partners involved.

OBTAINING TRIM UNITS

3 – F(a)

CONVERTING PREVIOUS/EXTERNAL COURSE CREDIT TO TRIM UNITS

How is course credit converted to TRIM units?

Students may transfer courses in to the TRIM transcript from previous educational institutions, or education institutions outside of the Brethren Academy or Bethany Theological Seminary. Courses must be transferred in from an institution recognized (accredited) by one of the eight regional accrediting agencies that follow the requirements of the United States Secretary of Education. All such accredited institutions are periodically reviewed and subsequently listed in the annual Higher Education Directory. Accredited schools can be found at www.ed.gov/accreditation

If a TRIM student wishes to transfer credits earned at the seminary level, he or she must show that the credits were earned at an institution accredited by the Association of Theological Schools (ATS).

Students must earn a grade of “C” or better in all courses accepted for TRIM credit, including those completed prior to admittance to TRIM and those courses taken while enrolled in the TRIM program. Incomplete or audited courses do not meet the requirements for an accredited course.

ACADEMY STUDENT PARTICIPATION IN GRADUATE COURSES

Brethren Academy students who wish to enroll in Bethany Seminary graduate courses for Brethren Academy credit (TRIM, EFSM/EPMC, SeBAH, ACTS) will Obtain permission to take the course from the instructor, academic dean, and the director of the Brethren Academy.

Apply to Bethany as an Auditor by filling out the application and writing the application essay.

Applicants must be approved by the Admissions Committee before enrolling in the course.

Once admitted, pay the $350 Auditor fee. (The $50 application fee will be waived.)

Successfully audit the course by

1. Meeting the attendance requirement
2. Completing the assigned reading
3. Engaging in the course through participation
4. Completing reduced assignments that may be required by the instructor.

Successfully auditing a graduate course for Academy credit results in one credit toward a student's program. In order for this credit to be applied, the instructor must notify the Brethren Academy in writing.

Brethren Academy students who wish to enroll in Bethany Seminary graduate courses for graduate credit (to be applied to a graduate transcript), will

Obtain permission to take the course from the instructor, academic dean, and the director of the Brethren Academy,

Apply to Bethany as an Occasional Student, select “Academy student for graduate credit”. Complete the application essay. Provide new transcripts.

Applicants must be approved by the Admissions Committee before enrolling in the course.

Once admitted, pay the $500 fee. (The $50 application fee is waived.)

Successfully complete the course by fulfilling all the requirements set forth by the instructor.

Students who successfully complete a course for graduate credit will receive three credits on their graduate transcript and one credit on their Academy transcript. In order for Academy credit to be applied, the instructor must notify the Brethren Academy in writing.

3-F(c)

TRANSFERRING ACTS INTO TRIM CREDIT

Students enrolled in the TRIM program may take ACTS (Academy Certified Training System) courses for TRIM credit if the following additional components are addressed. The negotiation for additional work rests primarily between the student and the instructor of the course.

1. Student's participation in the class for TRIM credit must be approved by the Coordinator of English-Language Ministry Training Programs. The student will initiate a conversation with the Coordinator.
2. The student will pay the full fee for a TRIM course, payable to the ACTS program.
3. The student will complete a minimum of 500 pages of reading. If the reading assignments assigned to the class do not reach this minimum, the instructor will assign additional reading in order to meet this minimum.
4. The student will have a minimum of 20 contact hours. Most ACTS courses are 15 or 16 contact hours. We don't expect the instructor to have more face-to-face time with the student, therefore, students will complete an additional paper/project that engages them with the subject matter. The topic of the paper/project will be made with approval of the instructor, who will also evaluate the paper/project
5. Instructor of the ACTS course must agree to these additional components as well, including assigning additional reading and evaluating additional work.
6. Student evaluations will be forwarded to the Brethren Academy from the ACTS office.

3-F(d)

COLLEGE LEVEL EXAMINATION PROGRAM (CLEP)

A TRIM student may meet general education requirements by successfully completing examinations through the College Level Examination Program (CLEP) rather than taking courses. CLEP offers 35 exams in five subject areas. Accepted by many educational institutions around the country, these tests, administered by the same organization that administers the SAT, are offered in many subjects.

Composition and Literature: American Literature, Analyzing and Interpreting Literature, English Composition, English Literature, Freshman College Composition, Humanities

World Languages: French, German, and Spanish Languages (Levels 1 and 2 available in each language)

History and Social Sciences: American Government, Human Growth and Development; Introduction to Educational Psychology; Principles of Macroeconomics; Principles of Microeconomics; Introductory Psychology; Introductory Sociology; Social Sciences and History; U.S. History I: Early Colonizations to 1877; U.S. History II: 1865 to the Present; Western Civilization I: Ancient Near East to 1648; Western Civilization II: 1648 to the Present

Science and Mathematics: Calculus, College Algebra, Precalculus, College Mathematics, Chemistry, Natural Sciences

Business: Information Systems and Computer Applications, Principles of Management, Principles of Accounting, Introductory Business Law, Principles of Marketing

As is the case with many colleges, the Brethren Academy does not allow CLEP credit for any exam that covers the same subject matter as a course the student took at the college level from an accredited educational institution. So, for example, if a student has already taken Sociology 101 at LaVerne, TRIM would not accept CLEP credit in sociology.

The fee for each CLEP test is $80.00. At the time a test is taken, the student should request that the score be reported directly to the Brethren Academy office. In order to receive credit, the student test score must be at least as high as the recommended score listed on the CLEP website. In an effort to ensure that TRIM students study a broad range of general education subjects, no more than two units of credit will be given for any one subject area. Three semester hours of CLEP credit equals one TRIM unit.

MINISTRY INTERNSHIP

4-A

INTERNSHIP OVERVIEW

Each model of ministry training in the Church of the Brethren includes a requirement for practical experience called an “internship.” This is a historic practice for Brethren. While Brethren placed great importance upon the equality of all persons under God, they were also concerned about conducting their communities of faith in good order. For this reason, from the beginning they “set aside” those of their number to carry out ministerial duties (Donald Durnbaugh, Fruit of the Vine, 110-111). According to James E. Miller, historically

No one [among the Brethren] had formal training; however, ministers were put through a system of mentoring and “learning by doing” under the presiding elder and ministers. (Stephen Longenecker, ed., Lines, Places and Heritage, 142)

Broadly defined, the goal of the ministry internship is to provide “called out” ministers with a structured opportunity to learn about ministry in the process of doing ministry. It is an action/reflection model of learning, one that supplements the learning that occurs through TRIM coursework and the experiences of ongoing ministry.

Selecting a Supervisor for the Internship

Students are required to choose a supervisor to guide ministry interns through this system of mentoring and “learning by doing.” The supervisor is selected in consultation with the district TRIM coordinator and in some cases, with the district ministry coordinating team. The Supervisor is one who has formal ministry training, enabling him or her to engage the intern in reflection about what is being learned in both study and the current ministry setting.

In situations where the intern is already supervised by someone in a ministry setting, effort should be made to secure a different person to provide supervision for this experience to enrich the feedback received.

In situations where the intern is already supervised by someone in a ministry setting, such as part-time pastoral ministry, effort should be made to secure a different person to provide supervision for this the internship to enrich the feedback received. In short, following the best of our Brethren tradition, the supervisor should be

1. A proven and tested minister possessing broad perspective, experience and oversight
2. A challenger who asks tough questions that require deep thinking
3. A mentor who encourages the student in his or her talents and also demands accountability

4. A constructive critic who offers a soundboard for ideas and gives honest feedback
5. A counselor who helps students think through the issues of ministry
6. A minister with an M.Div. or higher degree. If qualified and skilled potential supervisors do not meet this requirement, they must be approved by the Coordinator.

Description of the Internship

An intern spends at least 400 hours in ministry internship. This includes preparation time for tasks, actual involvement in ministry, and reflection on and evaluation of the experience. Except in special circumstances, internships should be completed over the period of one year, allowing interns to become more seasoned than a shorter time frame allows. In a one-year experience, an intern averages about eight hours a week in a ministry experience. A time log is provided to keep track of time spent. This tool will assure interns that they are spending adequate time in this experience and provide them with a self-monitoring system they can use in the future to help balance the time they spend at work with other activities in life.

The ministry internship is planned in consultation with the district TRIM coordinator and the supervisor. It takes place near the end of the TRIM program so that coursework and other educational events can undergird the experience. At least 20 units of study must be completed before beginning the internship (at least 5 of those must be completed while in TRIM, prior to the internship).

A Covenant between the student and supervisor for this internship must be submitted to the Coordinator at least one month in advance of the beginning of the internship to allow time for any adjustments that might need to be made to the plans.

Possible Internship Settings

While ministry occurs in many settings, TRIM is primarily a program established to train pastors. Therefore, interns may choose one of three recommended options for fulfilling this requirement:

- A ministry experience in a congregation a student is already serving
- A ministry experience in a congregation that the student has not served before
- In some instances, with the approval of the District Ministry Commission or district executive minister as well as the Brethren Academy Coordinator, the ministry internship may take place in a ministry setting other than a congregation.

Settings other than a congregation include:

- Chaplaincy, preferably under the supervision of a Board-Certified Chaplain. Training is available in a medical setting or Brethren retirement home through Clinical Pastoral Education (CPE). Possible locations are listed at www.acpe.edu
- Disaster Response Ministries (www.brethren.org)
- Church of the Brethren Camps (Outdoors Ministry Association of the Church of the Brethren, www.cob-net.org/oma.htm)
- Established programs for the training of Spiritual Directors

Planning the Experience

The steps for planning and carrying out a ministry internship are as follows:

1. The district TRIM coordinator and the intern will have already discussed options for the ministry internship as they work on the Learning Covenant following orientation. A tentative proposal for the ministry internship requirement is listed in the plan.
2. If the intern is not already functioning in a regular ministry setting, the district TRIM coordinator will assist in arranging a setting in which the ministry internship can take place. The Coordinator will also assist in making arrangements for supervision, preferably helping to negotiate with another qualified person to assume the role on behalf of the district, but in some cases assuming the role of supervisor. The coordinator and/or intern should also be in communication with the district executive minister to determine appropriate placement.
3. The supervisor and the student meet to formulate a set of learning goals. Instructions for writing learning goals are found in section 4-B.
4. At least one month before the ministry internship begins the intern and the district TRIM coordinator will prepare a Covenant for the ministry internship. A copy of this Covenant will be submitted to the Coordinator. Find a Covenant form in section 4-C of this manual.

NOTE: The Brethren Academy office will send all relevant materials to the Supervisor once the ministry internship covenant has been received and approved

5. Supervision normally includes a combination of on-site observation of the intern's ministry, critical feedback on materials prepared by the intern and regularly scheduled in-depth conversations.

6. In addition to goals and learning experiences, the intern will prepare at least three case studies, reporting on specific ministry experiences. It is recommended that these be focused in the areas of
 - a. preaching or leading worship
 - b. teaching a class or small group
 - c. providing pastoral care

All interns will prepare a fourth case study, reflecting on a transforming experience that has occurred during the ministry internship.

7. The district TRIM coordinator will keep the Brethren Academy staff informed of the student's ministry internship in his or her annual report. When someone other than the district TRIM coordinator is serving as the supervisor, the coordinator will consult with the supervisor to monitor progress.
8. At the conclusion of the ministry internship, the intern and supervisor will write evaluations of the experience using the forms provided, and the supervisor will determine whether the intern will receive credit for the experience. If the supervisor is someone other than the district TRIM coordinator, the supervisor will send copies of the evaluations and the four case studies to the district TRIM coordinator.
9. The district TRIM coordinator will send copies of the ministry internship evaluations and the four case studies to the Brethren Academy Coordinator who will note completion of the ministry internship requirement on the student's transcript.

WRITING LEARNING GOALS for the MINISTRY INTERNSHIP

When students apply for a ministry internship, they will identify specific learning goals they aim to achieve. When writing goals, consider the areas of ministry in which you feel you need the most improvement and write goals to challenge yourself in those areas. Be sure to frame the goal as an “outcome” and not merely an activity. For example, instead of saying “I will preach three times during my internship,” say, “In preaching I will become more proficient with resources such as commentaries and concordances.” In addition to the guidelines in this section, the document “Competencies for Ministries” in the TRIM manual (section 1-B) is a good resource for ideas about possible goals.

Examples

Learning Goal 1: I seek to expand my preparation techniques in writing sermons and to become more aware of how my sermons are received.

Evaluation: I will ask for sermon feedback from at least 10 people in the congregation using a response form. I will keep a journal to reflect on these methods and the reactions of listeners.

Learning Experiences for Goal #1: I will preach at least 6 sermons. As I do this, I will try three different styles of preparation:

1. use the lectionary scripture (or the scripture highlighted by the Brethren bulletin)
2. begin with a topic and support it with scripture
3. work with a small group for input

Learning Goal 2: As I minister to youth, I would like to develop strong connections between the activities I plan and the needs of youth and parents.

Evaluation: I will ask for feedback from parents and youth on a questionnaire.

Learning Experiences for Goal #2: I will visit each member of the youth group in his or her home, and have a conversation with the youth, parents or caregivers to discern what is the most meaningful aspect of congregational life, both to the youth and the adults present? I will then incorporate that idea into a prayer at some point during the visit. To follow up, I will make a list of ideas that emerge from both youth and adults. I will write a note to each youth affirming their participation in our church and specifically mention the aspect they said they found most meaningful. Taking the information I have gleaned, I will plan one activity for the youth group, providing response forms for youth and parents.

Learning Goal 3: Having spent most of my adult life in one Brethren congregation, I would like to broaden my view of what ministry is like in different congregational settings.

Evaluation: I will write a reflection paper on what I think it would mean for me to be the pastor of a congregation that is different from the one I am used to.

Learning Experiences for Goal #3: I will attend worship at a Brethren church I have never attended before, preferably one very different than my own. I will observe the congregation and take note of aspects of worship that are new or different for me. I will schedule a time to interview both the pastor and one congregational member, talking about what I have observed and asking about the traditions of that congregation.

CASE STUDY GUIDELINES

A deep engagement in ministry requires not only completing activities but reflecting on them. To facilitate this reflection on the internship, the intern is required to prepare four case studies to discuss with his or her supervisor. You will prepare a case study for each area of the internship—preaching, teaching, and pastoral care—and a fourth case study that focuses on a transforming experience in the internship. As you move through the internship, be alert to experiences that will lend themselves to these topics. Then write the case studies as soon as possible after the incident so your thoughts will be fresh in your mind.

Do not write the fourth and final case study until the final weeks of the internship; however, it is important to keep a list of possible experiences to refer back to, defining moments for your formation as a minister.

- 1. You will present your case studies to your supervisor at regular intervals and present only one case study at a single meeting. A reporting form is provided for writing case studies (4-G, H, I). Depending on the nature of the event, the report form might need to be modified in consultation with your supervisor. At the end of the session the form should be signed and dated at the bottom by both you and your supervisor.
- 2. Each case study will be 8-10 double-spaced, typed pages in length and written in a narrative style on the forms provided. A longer case study is acceptable, keeping in mind that depth, not length, is the goal. After the student and the supervisor discuss the case study, the supervisor will give a copy of the signed report to the district TRIM coordinator for your ministry internship file.
- 3. Write three “activity” case studies.
For the first three case studies, choose one event for which you have primary responsibility. Be sure this is an event you either planned and carried out or were a vital part of. For most interns, it is recommended that the three activity case studies are written about one event in each of the following areas: preaching/worship, teaching, and pastoral care. Interns who do their ministry internship in areas that do not lend themselves to these kinds of activities will consult with their supervisors about alternative topics.
- 4. Write a fourth case study about a transforming experience in ministry. For this case study, consider one area in which you have grown in your view of ministry. How were you transformed? What surprised you about yourself during this trial run at ministry? Write a case study about a stretching, transforming experience in your ministry internship that you feel will deeply impact your ministry in the future. For this case study, write briefly on numbers 1-3 in the report form provided, but focus your attention and reflection on numbers 4-6.

4 - G

CASE STUDY REPORT FORM

NOTE: Submit four case studies, one case study per form. Each case study will be 8-10 pages in length, typed, double-spaced, in 12-point Times New Roman or Arial font, with 1" margins. COMPLETION

Completion Process and Graduation Competencies

Once the curricular, experience, and internship requirements are met, TRIM students will enter the Completion phase of their program. This phase includes the submission of three items, in no particular order, and will be provided to the student by the Brethren Academy office:

1. Student Self-Assessment (in which the student evaluates their growth, experience in the program, and competencies for ministry)
2. District Coordinator Evaluation (in which the district TRIM coordinator evaluates the overall performance of the student)
3. Exit exam (in which the student displays their level of proficiency in biblical, theological, and ministry skills)

When all requirements have been completed for graduation, the Coordinator of English-Language Ministry Training Programs of the Brethren Academy for Ministerial Leadership will inform the district executive minister of your district. Districts are encouraged to recognize TRIM graduates by presenting them with their graduation certificate at District Conference. TRIM graduates are also recognized at the Bethany Seminary/Brethren Academy luncheon at Annual Conference, at which time you become an official alumnus/a of the seminary.

Each TRIM graduate receives a certificate indicating completion of an approved Church of the Brethren program of ministry training. For those seeking credentialing, this certification verifies that the educational requirements for ordination or commissioned status in the Church of the Brethren have been fulfilled.

A TRIM student approaching graduation from the program is expected to be competent in three categories:

- general education,
- biblical and theological studies, and
- ministry and ministry skills.

An assessment of these competencies will be reviewed by BAML staff members at the end of the student's program, taking into consideration overall performance in coursework, internship experience, attention to administrative tasks of the program, and the student's exit exam.

5-B

STUDENT SELF-ASSESSMENT AND TRIM EXIT EXAM

When the student enters the completion phase, they will be sent a self-assessment as well as an exit exam. But must be completed and submitted in order to complete the program

This exit exam is a series of essays that will allow the student to demonstrate the “Competencies for Ministry” as described in the Readiness for Ministry Program, developed by the Church of the Brethren Office of Ministry. These same Competencies are outlined at the beginning of this manual.

Through successful completion of the core requirements, electives, supervised ministry internship, and experiences students should have a solid foundation on which to complete the exam. The essays include case studies (exhibiting various ministry skills), biblical exegesis, as well as questions about Church of the Brethren history and the contemporary church, Church of the Brethren ordinances and practices, and spiritual disciplines.

When the student enrolls in their final course, the Brethren Academy will send the exam. The student may complete the exam at their own pace and do any additional research that seems necessary to answer the questions successfully. The exam may be submitted any time after the conclusion of the final course. A student will not be able to complete their program (TRIM or EFSM) until the exam has been evaluated.

Evaluations of Exit Exams are done by staff members of the Brethren Academy. The evaluation committee meets monthly. Evaluations will identify strengths as well as areas in which the student needs continued growth. General results will be provided to the student, the district coordinator or supervising pastor, as well as the student’s district executive.

FINAL EVALUATION
District TRIM Coordinator

Final evaluations by the student and the coordinator complete a student's file prior to graduation. Use this form on the computer to assess your experience as coordinator and the performance of the student. You may touch on these topics and others:

- The experience of mentoring the student through the TRIM process
- Particular gifts seen in this student, including those that were strengthened in the process
- Evaluation of the support for the process from your District Ministry leadership and/or from the Brethren Academy staff
- Other general suggestions

Please make your evaluation the length it needs to be to adequately assess the experience.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE GUIDELINES

1. TRIM students may request and receive one award in the fall semester and one award in the spring semester, totaling no more than two awards for the academic year in which the student is enrolled. The fall semester is July 1-December 30; December 1 is the deadline for applying for financial assistance. The spring Semester is January 1- June 30; June 15 is the deadline for applying for financial assistance. Awards are reported as taxable income.
2. The amount of an award is determined by the number of units the student plans to complete during that semester to fulfill TRIM credits and by the estimated expense of those units:
 - A. Students enrolling for the minimum required 2 units per semester (on-site, online, or DISU courses) are eligible for an award of up to $300 or current cost of one course.
 - B. Students enrolling for 3 or more units per semester (on-site, online, or DISU courses) are eligible for an award of up to $600, or the current cost of two courses.

GUIDELINES FOR WRITING TRIM RESEARCH PAPERS

Much time has passed since many students were required to write research papers. These guidelines will provide help in knowing how to format a paper and how to structure its content. Of course, each instructor will have requirements for papers you must follow, but some rules are general in nature and apply in most cases.

Format

Most research papers are typed in a 12-point font, double-spaced, with standard 1-inch margins. All quotations are to be footnoted, and quotations longer than three lines should be placed in a block quote, indented from both the right and left margin and single-spaced. A bibliography of sources cited should appear at the end of the paper. For footnotes and endnotes, refer to a style guide, such as Kate Turabian's A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations or the Chicago Manual of Style, as the authority on form.

Sample Footnote:

Carl Desportes Bowman, Portrait of a People: The Church of the Brethren at 300 (Elgin, IL: Brethren Press, 2008), 83.

Sample Bibliography Entry:

Bowman, Carl Desportes. Portrait of a People: The COB at 300. Elgin, IL: Brethren Press, 2008.

Content

Each paper needs a clear thesis statement around which the paper is organized. After choosing a broad topic, do some introductory reading. Start by looking at the bibliography in a textbook that addresses your subject. Where did the author get his or her information? In addition, check reference works such as Bible dictionaries and commentaries. Get a feel for the issues that scholars are debating in relation to the topic and see their suggestions for further reading. Then begin to narrow and fine tune the issue you would like to write about. How many ways could you break down the topic? Perhaps just one of these finer points is a more manageable topic. Remember that depth is usually more valuable than breadth in a research project. Above all, a research paper should clearly indicate what you have learned as a result of your research.

Academic research papers should have an introduction, a body, and a conclusion. The introduction should set up the problem or issue you're writing about and conclude with a single sentence that states clearly what the focus of the paper will be. This is called your thesis statement. Get right to the point in the introduction. No need to beat around the bush.

Sample introductory paragraph and thesis statement: In John 13:13-15, Jesus commands his disciples, who were all men, to wash one another's feet. Would the story have been different if the disciples were women? In this paper, I will investigate the role of gender in shaping one's perspective on footwashing, gathering information from historical, biblical, and theological sources.

The body of the paper makes the full-blown case for the statement the student has made in the thesis; that is, the body presents the reasons for thinking the thesis is true. It is also in the body of the paper where the writer uses quotations and references to support or demonstrate the points he or she is making.

The conclusion moves from the arguments themselves to the result. Given everything you've learned, what do you conclude? Or what do you conclude from the evidence and arguments?

Even after a research project is underway, you may need to adjust your topic in light of your studies. Keep the instructor informed of any major changes. Don't hesitate to consult with an instructor if you have questions. Such questions will be welcome and a sign that you're serious about your research, especially if they come in a timely manner rather than at 5:30 the day before the research paper is due.

POLICY on CITATION STYLE and PLAGIARISM

Citation policy

The standard citation style can be found in the most recent edition of Kate Turabian's A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations: Chicago Guides to Writing, Editing, and Publishing (Chicago: University of Chicago Press). Instructors have the option of specifying a different style, and they will state the required style on each course syllabus. Faculty may require students to rewrite an assignment that fails to conform to the specified style.

Plagiarism policy

Integrity is central to life in community. In the academic community, integrity means giving proper credit to people for the ideas and information we receive from them. It also means that the work we submit and represent as our own is really work we ourselves have done.

Plagiarism is using the work of other people without giving them credit, whether in written assignments or formal oral presentations. A glaring example of plagiarism would be submitting an entire essay written by someone else and claiming it was your own. It is also plagiarism to use, without giving credit, someone else's ideas or phrases. This definition applies to words and images, to manuscripts, and to ideas gleaned from spoken communication. For further examples and appropriate ways to cite, please see the most recent edition of Kate Turabian's A Manual for Writers of Term Papers, Theses, and Dissertations: Chicago Guides to Writing, Editing, and Publishing (Chicago: University of Chicago Press), especially sections 4.2.3, 7.9, and 25.1.

The consequences for plagiarism will vary according to the extent of the offense, but even "minor" instances are considered serious enough to incur penalties. These may range from rewriting the assignment, non-crediting the assignment, or non-crediting the course, up to dismissal from the program. Any instances of plagiarism will be reported by the instructor to the student, the student's program coordinator, the district coordinator, the Academy Director, as appropriate.

Students sometimes ask whether they can submit in one course the work they have done for a prior course. The general answer is no, though it is always good to speak with the instructor about this issue.

I will honor all copyrights" (p. 8, letter M).

POLICY FOR CREATING A CULTURE OF RESPECT IN THE CLASSROOM

Courses are designed to be settings of mutual respect in which:

- Scripture, as the authoritative and inspired word of God, is the foundation of our work together.
- Training for ministry occurs through topic presentation and dialogue among instructors and students.
- We respect and hear one another even though our views may differ.
- We work within the framework of Church of the Brethren Annual Conference statements.
- Online etiquette will be observed.

Classroom Expectations

Privacy

Given the content of the courses taught by the Brethren Academy, it is likely that some students may share situations in their lives or ministries that directly relate to the content of the class. All conversations in the classroom should be considered private (except under circumstances where the safety or well-being of the student, faculty, or others may be in question) and remain solely referred to in the context of the class.

Respect

Student learners are at various places in their studies as well as their faith journeys. Some have clear opinions about certain topics. Some prefer to hear various perspectives before expressing their own views. Some struggle to find their voice at all as they weave together what they knew coming into the course, what they have personally experienced, and what they are learning. The combination makes for a dynamic classroom.

We do not expect everyone to agree with every statement made by another student or the instructor. We do, however, expect that there will be respect discourse in the classroom. When there is disagreement, students and instructors will address the content of the statement rather than the speaker.

Often students will share aspects of their lived experiences. These kinds of statements are personal and, by nature, subjective. One person's experience of something may be very different than someone else's. While it is acceptable to discuss generalities or question theories, individual experiences are to be respected.

There is no place for ridicule, condescension, or any other disrespectful communication in the classroom. If such communication is noted, appropriate action will be taken (see “Process for submitting a grievance” below)

Language

One of the drawbacks to online learning is the loss of face-to-face interaction and the ability to interpret tone, body language, even humor and sarcasm. Be aware of how your words may or may not convey negative connotations or aggression. If you are confused by what someone has written, write to them and ask to clarify. Online learning is a new skill set for many that will take patience to acquire.

Additionally, the Brethren Academy invites all students and instructors to work toward the consistent use of language that is inclusive of all people, and struggle against the repeated and exclusive use of speech that limits our understanding of God. We encourage students to be open to multiple images in thinking and speaking about God, while also respecting the choices of other students.

Below are some additional guidelines for successful online communication.

Successful Online Communication and Etiquette

When taking a course online, it is important to remember several points of practice that will foster communication between the students and their instructors.

1. Avoid language that may come across as strong or offensive.

Language can be easily misinterpreted in written communication. If a point must be stressed, review the statement to make sure that an outsider reading it would not be offended, then post the statement. Humor and sarcasm may easily be misinterpreted as well, so try to be as matter of fact and professional as possible.

2. Your language should also be appropriate for the setting. While online learning may provide a sense of informality, language use must be clear, professional, and correct both grammatically and in regard to spelling. Students should avoid using slang (such as “wassup?”), abbreviations (such as “u” for “you” or “lol”), emoticons/emojis (☺), or ALL CAPS (as it can be interpreted as yelling). Avoiding overly informal language is also good practice.

3. Keep writing to a point and stay on topic.

Online courses require a lot of reading, both assigned works and posted lectures and comments. When writing, keep sentences on topic and brief so that readers do not get lost in wordy paragraphs and miss the point of the statement. Also, try not to introduce new topics; it may confuse the readers.

4. Read first, write later.

It is important to read all posts or comments of students and instructors within the course discussion before personally commenting to prevent repeating commentary or asking questions that have already been answered.

5. Review, review, then send.

There is no taking back a comment that has already been sent, so it is important to double-check all writing to make sure that it clearly conveys the intended message.

6. If possible, keep attachments small.

If it is necessary to send pictures, change the size to an acceptable 100k.

7. Inappropriate material is prohibited

Do not forward virus warnings, chain letters, etc. to classmates or instructors. The sharing of pornographic material is forbidden.

Process for submitting a grievance

1. If a student feels that interactions are taking place that violate the Policy of Creating a Culture of Respect in the Classroom, that student will privately notify the instructor with the grievance.
2. The instructor will be required to address the student(s) involved and will report the action to the Brethren Academy.
3. If the situation does not improve, the student submitting the grievance should notify the coordinator of the ministry training program in which they are enrolled. The coordinator will take appropriate action, which may include additional conversations with the instructor, offending student(s), Director of the Brethren Academy, and/or the offending student's (or students') district program coordinator(s) and District Executive.
4. If disciplinary action is needed due to persistent disregard for the Policy of Creating a Culture of Respect in the Classroom, it will be determined in conversation with the Brethren Academy and the student's district.

Acknowledgements: The policy introduction is adapted from Susquehanna Valley Ministry Center's Policy on Creating a Culture of Respect in the Classroom. The sections regarding classroom and online etiquette were created in consultation with Matthew Boersma, Instructor for Introduction to Biblical Studies and Introduction to the Hebrew Bible for the Brethren Academy.
